Advanced Rescue Diver Course

The NAUI Rescue Diver Course is designed to train you to identify and solve diving emergencies. You will be trained to effectively perform in-water rescue/assist techniques and procedures both at the surface and underwater for both conscious and unconscious divers. Training will also include identifying and solving problems before they lead to a diving accident, recognizing life threatening diving situations, how to handle stress and deal with panicking divers, correctly manage rescue assistants during and after rescues, provide immediate and effective post-rescue aid and accident management.

This exciting program includes:

- 10 hours of in depth lecture including rescue techniques, physiology and accident management.
- 4 hours of pool training.
- 4 Ocean dives performing surface and underwater rescues, extracting an injured/unconscious diver and accident management.

Advanced Rescue Diver graduates will be competent in handling diving emergency situations and accident management and will receive a NAUI Advanced Rescue Diver certification (does not expire).
